40,000 Jam Bristol To Welcome St. Nick

A crowd estimated at upwards of 40,000 people lined the streets Saturday as Bristol formally opened the holiday season with a mile-long, 61-unit Veterans' day-Thanksgiving-Christmas parade featuring the armed services and Santa Claus.

Civic officials claimed that it was the largest crowd and the biggest parade in the history of Bristol. They and Army officials provided the estimate of between 40,000 and 45,000.

The people thronged around Bristol High School, at Garfield and Wilson Aves., the parade's starting place, and lined the curbs down Wilson Ave., Pond St., Mill St., and the lower end of Radcliffe St. to cheer and applaud the hour-long march.

A float provided by the Army Recruiting Service, with tractor and trailer entirely covered by roses and with a bevy of beauties in formal gowns, was adjudged best unit in the parade and winner of a special trophy.

A float from Thiokol Corp. with the man in the moon at one end and a candy cane at the other was judged second best and one from the Marion Whippis photography studio, third best.

TV Staff Visits Levittown

Rector Interviewed By Lowell Thomas

Lowell Thomas, newspaper columnist and radio and television commentator, visited Levittown this morning to interview the Rev. Stanley Powell, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Mill Creek Drive and Levittown Parkway.

Thomas, with a crew of 14 assisting him, filmed and recorded a short, snappy interview with Father Powell for use on the U.S. Steel Hour television network program Dec. 14.

The interview will be a part of the "How America Lives" feature which takes up three and one-half minutes on the television show. Rev. Powell's part in it will be only one and one-half minutes.

Thomas asked Father Powell if he agreed that a resurgence of faith was taking place in America and what kind of people attended St. Paul's.

"All kinds," Father Powell replied. "And every one of them considers this church his church." The minister paid tribute to his parishioners who "gave up their free time to build facilities for our 550 Sunday School students."

Advertising agency officials from Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne, accompanying the camera crew and Thomas, warned that some of the Rev. Powell's talk may be cut before it appears on the air.

Fan Letter Pays Off

Housewife Awaits Dinah Shore's Dresses

Mrs. James E. Drylie of Levittown, who will receive all the dresses worn by Dinah Shore on the TV songstress' show last night, enjoyed seeing her new wardrobe modeled.

Mrs. Drylie said she liked the dresses very much.

"It was hard to tell about the colors, but the one with the lace sleeves was my favorite," she said.

About a year ago, Mrs. Drylie overheard a group of women deriding Miss Shore, claiming the television star was popular because of her expensive clothes, jewelry and hair-do.

New Police Center Seen Aiding Tests

State Police Commissioner Col. Frank G. McCartney, said this morning the "lack of facilities" at the driver test center in Doylestown, for which he and Gov. David L. Lawrence were "severely criticised last week," will be overcome by the opening today of the new State Police Barracks and driver test center on Route 1, Trevose.

The criticism to which the commissioner referred was an editorial decrying deplorable conditions at the Doylestown test center. The editorial appeared in the Courier-Times.

The new State Police substation and driver examination point were formally dedicated today and turned over to a 22-man detail which will patrol the Lower Bucks County area.

The new station is located on the New Trevose Road, U.S. Route 1, in Trevose. It replaces a leased facility in Fairless Hills, which State Police had occupied since 1952.

Keys to the substation were turned over to McCartney in a flag-raising ceremony at the new building 11 a.m. this morning. The presentation was made by Mrs. Mary I. Devlin, deputy secretary of revenue, whose department provided the funds for the building and examination center.

Attend Ceremony

Also present for the ceremony were Leonard A. Domlesky, assistant director of engineering and construction for the state Property and Supplies Department, which supervised the construction.

The new station is part of the command of Capt. Lawrence Sapudiar, commanding officer of State Police Troop "D", with headquarters at Bethlehem.

Man Injured In Auto Crash

A two-car accident witnessed by fans on their way to the Bensalem-Neshaminy football game Saturday afternoon sent a Levittown man to Lower Bucks County Hospital with chest injuries.

Solomon Kipnes, 46, 10 Fullturn Road, was injured when his car collided with a vehicle driven by Joseph Proko, 23, of Philadelphia at the intersection of Superhighway and Highland Ave., Langhorne. It happened about 1 p.m.

Kipnes was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital this morning.

Kipnes was travelling south on Highland Ave. and Proko was moving north on the Superhighway, it was stated. Middletown Township Police Officer Stephen Ambrose investigated.

Damage to Proko's car was estimated at $650. Damage to Kipnes' vehicle was estimated at $500. Kipnes' car was knocked off the roadway by the force of the collision, police said.

Kipnes was taken to the hospital by the Pennedej - Middletown Rescue Squad.

Fair Skies To Continue

The past weekend's weather continued its flow into these pre-Thanksgiving days, uninterrupted by the traditional Monday morning blues.

The weatherman this morning forecast fair and mild climes today and tomorrow, with high temperatures both days expected to hover at about 60 degrees. The overnight low is expected to dip to between 40 and 45 degrees.

This morning's forecast was further enhanced by an optimistic look into the future. The weatherman foresaw no immediate blemish on the weather record for the next few days.

Yesterday's high was 56 at 2 p.m. The low this morning was 41 at 8 o'clock.

New State Police Facility Opens

The new State Police barracks and driver test center on Route 1, Trevose, was opened for business this morning. Taking part in the ceremonies, (from left), Colonel Frank G. Will Sift Evidence

Bucks Grand Jury Convenes To Consider Boyer Charges

Bucks County Commission Chairman Edward B. Boyer opened the regular meeting of the commissioners at 10 a.m. in the Bucks County courthouse today as the November grand jury heard the extortion and bribery charges against him.

Boyer is charged with taking money from merchandise market owners for immunity from arrest for violation of the Sunday Blue Laws. Charles B. Meyers, former U.S. deputy marshal, is charged with conspiracy in connection with the alleged payments.

Chief County Det. Clarence Irwin, Det. Thawley D. Hayman and State Police Sgt. Adrian J. McCarr were the only witnesses listed on the bill of indictment last week. However, additional witnesses were expected to go before the grand jury today.

The grand jury does not determine the guilt or innocence of an accused person. Its function is to decide, on the basis of testimony for the Commonwealth only, whether or not there is enough evidence for the case to go on trial.

Nineteen complaints charge Boyer with receiving $150 a week from Elmer Bauso, owner of Butch's Market and Auction, Trevose, during 19 weeks ending Sept. 19, a total of $1,850.

Boyer, who maintains he is innocent, has declined suggestions and finally a request by the Bucks County Republican Executive Committee that he take a leave of absence until his case is disposed of.

No Provision

The commissioner has said that the law has no provision for a leave of absence and that to take one would be "tantamount to admitting the validity of the charges."

Foreman of the grand jury is Charles F. Rudolph, an automobile salesman, of 62 Greenbrook Drive, Levittown. The jury has 16 members, including 11 men and five women.

15 Witnesses Report

About 15 witnesses reported to Bucks County Courthouse to testify in the Boyer case.

Three witnesses were heard this morning. They were Hayman; Al Lerner, formerly associated with Quakertown's Farmers Market; and Elmer Bauso, owner of Butch's market.

This afternoon there will be many witnesses associated with Bargain City. They are Leon Himmelfarb, 163 Magnolia Drive, Levittown manager of Bargain City in Fairless Hills; Milton Levy, 243 South Walker Ave., Trenton; (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

'Fine Performance'

Philharmonic Concert Highlights Clarinetist

By KENNETH J. RABEN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

More than 400 Lower Bucks County residents attended the Delaware Valley Philharmonic Orchestra's second concert of the season yesterday and were rewarded with a fine performance.

Featured during the ambitious program at the Woodrow Wilson High School, Levittown, was 14-year-old clarinetist Allen C. Winco. The orchestral selections ran the gamut from Mozart to McDonald and Copland.

Winco's playing of Carl Maria Von Weber's "Concertino for Clarinet and Orchestra" left little to be desired, particularly from one just beginning a musical career.

Third Aide Ousted

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today ordered assistant U.S. Embassy air attaché Irving T. McDonald expelled from the country on charges of activities incompatible with his diplomatic status.

McDonald, 34, an Air Force captain, was the third U.S. Embassy official ousted from the Soviet Union in recent months.

Embassy first secretary George Winters and air attaché Col. Edward Kirtson were expelled last August with the accusation they had engaged in espionage.

At the time Kirtson was accused of photographing military objects, McDonald received a reprimand from the Kremlin for alleged involvement in the incident.

McDonald was given until midnight Friday to clear out. Formal notification was sent to the embassy by the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

McDonald, a Bostonian, was nearing the end of his two-year tour of duty in Moscow.

His wife and two children live with him in Moscow.

McDonald currently is on a trip away from the Soviet capital. Friends said he would return to get his family and fly to Washington for re-assignment.

U.N. Broke, Dag Reports

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld announced today the United Nations was rapidly going broke and he may have to "liquidate" the U.N. military operation in the Congo.

Hammarskjöld, in a bombshell report to the General Assembly's budget committee, said he expected the world peace organization to end up with an unprecedented cash deficit of at least $2 million by Dec. 31.

He said the only way "insolvency" could be avoided and the critical peace operation continued in the Congo was through a radical step up of contributions by member governments.

Russia and its eight satellite partners previously had declared they would pay no part of the "dirty" U.N. operation in the Congo, despite persistent warnings the world parliament was headed for the gravest financial crisis of its 15 year history.

Astronauts Watch Escape Rockets Fail

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — America's seven Mercury astronauts today watched the escape equipment designed to protect their lives in space flight fail for the second straight time as a Mercury-Redstone rocket malfunctioned on the launching pad.

There was no man inside the space capsule in today's test but all seven of the astronauts picked to ride into space sometime next year were on hand to watch the test.

A cluster of three rockets designed to jerk the one-ton space capsule free of the giant Redstone in event of major failure, such as an explosion, went off by mistake when the Redstone merely failed to fire. The attachments apparently broke and the escape rockets soared out of sight, leaving the man-capsule behind.

The Redstone was supposed to boost the bell-shaped capsule more than 100 miles into space on a 220-mile flight over the Atlantic in today's test.

The flight, which would have lasted 16 minutes, was the first full-scale trial for the rocket-and-capsule combination that civilian space agency head T. Keith Glennan said would carry a U. S. astronaut into space sometime in January.

But today's mishap marked the second straight failure for the critical escape system, and may have set the Mercury program back even further.

Earlier this month, a test of the escape equipment from Wallops Island, Va., also failed when the tower did not separate from its booster over the Atlantic Ocean.

Project Mercury scientists said the trouble which caused the Wallops Island fizzle had been eliminated in today's Mercury-

Redstone.

But three seconds before scheduled launch time at 9 a. m., the escape rocket "ignited prematurely," the federal space agency said.

The capsule and its Redstone booster were poised for an attempted flight of 220 miles over the Atlantic Ocean today in a test run of the system expected to carry a U. S. astronaut into space.

Success today was mandatory

if the top-priority Mercury program, America's $350 million dream for matching Russia in perhaps the most dramatic lap of the space race, was to meet a revised schedule.

Mercury already is far behind its original time-table, and today's Redstone shot has been plagued by months of electrical and mechanical woes. The shot was postponed twice earlier this month because of a leak in a control gas system.

The Courier-Times will pay $2 for every question used by the Inquiring Reporter. Today's question was submitted by P. H. Metzger, 5110 Newportville Road, Cornwells Heights.

Question

What action would you take against Cuba if you were president?

LARRY TURSI, 212 Hill Ave., Langhorne, barbershop owner.

All the furor about Cuba is only a propaganda attempt. The situation is not as bad as it seems. I know people who live in Cuba and they know nothing about our headlines and our attitude towards the current situation. I believe the Cubans are fairly receptive to Castro and do not look upon him as a dictator.

MRS. JOHN WOOD, Elm and Station Avenues, Langhorne, housewife.

I would hope to work out some peaceful means of getting along with Cuba without hurting the people who live there or jeopardizing our relations with them. I suspect the Cubans are divided in their opinion of Castro but he must be getting some support to stay on power. There will probably be more trouble there before it's all over.

ALTON HENRY, Bellevue Ave., Langhorne, truck driver.

I'd try to talk peace first and see what the Cuban reaction was to the discussions. I believe there are great numbers of Communists in Cuba today. I don't think the Cubans like Castro, although it's hard to say without being there. If I were there, I wouldn't permit Communists to enter and run the country.

MRS. MARVIN KIRCHER, 410 Brendwood Drive, Langhorne, housewife.

I'm glad I'm not president because I wouldn't want to have to make a decision about Cuba. The situation there could really become serious. It's just started. The area could become a spring-board for communist infiltration. It's not Cuba itself, but the way in which it's being used as a wedge to open this area for Communism.

CLIFFORD NANGLE, 207 Hill Ave., Langhorne, department store owner.

I wouldn't take any action against Cuba. I've thought for a long time our strongest weapon against Communism was statehood. I'd offer statehood to the Cubans in a free election under United Nations auspices. Statehood would be advantages to us as well as the Cubans. I'd give the Communists a chance to hold an election, too. Let the people decide what they want.

MRS. MARY ANANIAN, RD 1, Langhorne, an activity instructor at the Philadelphia State Hospital.

I'd tally up the opinions of many people and act on a consensus of those opinions. I certainly hope the situation doesn't get any worse. They are probably making more out of it than is actually there. Probably, Cuban opinions about Castro are divided. It's easy to see Castro has his own opinion on things. I'm glad he's not our president.

Three beauty queens also were there—Nancy Nemeth, Miss Bristol of 1960; Helen Kellner, the Lower Bucks Polka Queen, and Diane Lewis, Little Miss America. Borough officials were lavish in their praise of the entire affair.

Burgess Anthony R. Nicoletti said, "To me it was one of the most outstanding events we ever had and I was born and raised in the community. I've had a lot of calls from residents and visitors to the area complimenting us."

Nicoletti paid special tribute to Philip J. Powell Jr., parade director and president of the sponsoring Mill St. Businessmen's Association. He also extended thanks to the Bristol Township, Philadelphia, and Civil Defense auxiliary police who were on hand to help.

Grand marshal of the parade was Murray C. Hotchkiss, co-publisher and executive vice president of the Courier-Times. Seven captains headed the seven divisions of the parade, with Chief of Police Vincent A. Faragalli in charge of the first.

The parade moved off exactly on time, 9 a.m., and reached Mill St., where the greatest crowds were congregated, an hour later. Before it got there all parking in the area, including the municipal parking lot, was gone.

One man drove into a commercial garage and ordered a new set of tires just so he would have a place to leave his car.

Santa On Float

Santa Claus rode on one of the floats and dismounted as the parade went down Mill St. He will be in Pixieland, a Mill Street baby-sitting center, during shopping hours until Christmas.

Carrier boys from the Courier-Times marched along with Santa, collecting letters from the children en route. The names of each child who has written to Santa will be published in the Courier-Times before Christmas.

Mrs. Newbourne holds the title "Mrs. Housing Development of Pennsylvania," and was the third woman to appear on the show to compete for the title, "Mrs. Housing Development, U.S.A." The finals, scheduled sometime this spring, will include contestants from all states. It had been previously reported that Mrs. Newbourne had won the U.S.A. title and $2,000.

by Sgt. Andrew J. Kutney and Cpl. James J. Shovelin, both formerly stationed at Fairless Hills. The 17-man detail from the former station has been augmented by five men to handle the new examination center established at the station.

The driver examination detail is headed by Sgt. James R. Harris, who had been transferred from troop headquarters (Bethlehem).

Cost $198,442

The new building was constructed at a total cost of $198,442. It is a one-story brick building, with basement and three-car garage, providing complete office facilities and sleeping quarters for eight men.

A separate wing houses the offices for the examination point. The center will be open for applicants for learners' permits and new drivers taking the road test from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, except Sundays and holidays. The examination center will also be open nights until 10 p.m., Monday through Friday, to accommodate drivers subject to the physical re-examination.

The major advantage to citizens in the area will be the addition of an examination in the county, which will also benefit motorists in Northeastern Philadelphia and Bethlehem as well.

Examination Point

The Trevose examination point replaces a two-day-a-week point at Doylestown, which will be discontinued. The Tuesday and Friday examination days at Doylestown will now be held at Bethlehem, where headquarters will now offer examinations Monday through Saturday. Bethlehem is also open evenings until 10 p.m. for re-examination vision tests.

The substitution commander, Sgt. Kutney, is a veteran of 23 years State police service, almost all of it served in the Troop "D" area of Lehigh, Northampton and Bucks Counties. A native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Kutney now resides in Langhorne with his wife and two sons.

Others assigned to the station are:

Cpl. James J. Shovelin, Cpl. William A. Arner, Tpr. Charles H. Beynon, Tpr. William Thomas, Tpr. James Failace, Tpr. John L. Ziemba, Tpr. Michael J. Holleran, Tpr. Paul D. Kohuth, Tpr. Thomas J. Yardley Businessmen Seek Delay In Bridge Demolition

Bridge Official Gives Little Hope To Plan

Outcries by Yardley businessmen against the closing of the Yardley Bridge may be in vain, William R. Johnson, acting executive director of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, said this morning.

Answering a statement by John Keller, vice president of the Yardley Businessmen's Association, Johnson noted that commitments by the bridge commission to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and the Army Corps of Engineers oblige the commission to dismantle the Yardley span as soon as the Scudders Falls Bridge above the borough is opened to traffic.

"Dead End" Keller said yesterday that removal of the Yardley Bridge will harm business in the area and leave those businesses on Afton Ave. at "sort of a dead end."

Keller said he would ask his associates to discuss the issue with the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission. The commission plans to remove the Yardley Bridge after the Scudders Falls span is opened to traffic Jan. 8.

The bridge extends from Afton Ave., Yardley, across the Delaware River to West and Wilburtha Roads, West Trenton. The Scudders Falls Bridge runs north of Yardley to Scudders Falls, N.J.

Johnson said that plans made with the Army and Federal road agencies soon after the old Yardley Bridge was washed out by the 1955 flood, dictate any action to be taken by the commission. The washed-out portion of the old bridge was replaced with an Army Bailey Bridge, which must be returned to the Army Corps of Engineers at Schenectady, N.Y. Johnson added that the commission will this week receive competitive bids for the demolition of the Yardley Bridge. He added that he doubts very much if discussions with the Yardley businessmen could delay the work.

Traffic "Pour" Keller claims industrial traffic will pour into Pennsylvania from New Jersey over the new structure exiting into Upper River Road north of Yardley. Since the road is actually an extension of Yardley's Main St., Keller contends business will suffer from resultant heavy traffic.

Keller expressed hope the commission would let the Yardley Bridge stand until the over-all plan calling for new roads to ease congestion is carried out. These roads will skirt Yardley.

Keller said there are 45 members in his association. Twenty-two businesses are on Afton Ave. and the others are on Main St., he said.

Policeman Shot By Son

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) — A 17-year-old high school senior was held today in the fatal shooting of his father, a state policeman, after the father scolded the youth for his low marks in school.

Luzerne County Dist. Atty. Steven Teller said the son, Kenneth Scheiss, faces a murder charge in the shooting of his father, Kurt, 40, as the father approached the family's home in Dallas, near here, Sunday.

Investigators quoted the boy as saying his father had been "picking on" him about his low school grades and he decided to kill himself but changed his mind after getting a .38 caliber revolver from an upstairs drawer.

Police said Kenneth decided to shoot his father in the arm or leg "to get him to sit down for a talk."

Teller said the boy fired at his father from inside the house and wounded his father as he approached the door. Scheiss, a 22-year State Police veteran, stationed at the Wyoming barracks, began to crawl toward the door and the youth emptied the gun at his father, hitting him with two more bullets.

Kenneth's mother and three younger sisters were in the house at the time. The boy is a student at Westmoreland High School in Dallas.

Smoke Found In Plane,

81 Use Evacuation Chute

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Eighty-one passengers of a TWA Constellation used the plane's evacuation chute last night at Greater Pittsburgh Airport after evidence of smoke was discovered in the cabin.

The smoke was noticed when the plane, Flight 529, was about 10 minutes out of Pittsburgh at approximately 11:20 p.m., e.s.t. The pilot made a normal landing, but passengers were told to use the canvas evacuation chute rather than wait for a ladder.

A TWA spokesman said some of the passengers suffered minor brush burns during the exodus.

Fifty-two of the passengers were destined for Pittsburgh. The others boarded another craft for their destinations.

Flight 529 travels between Boston and Los Angeles.

Capt. A. Lusk was in charge of the plane, assisted by Flight Engineer A. Rex Wezlef and 1st Officer J. Donlan Jr.
